

ABOUT TOM:

Tom Elseroad, Pastor and Bible teacher for nearly 40 years is married to his lovely wife Karen, and have two daughters in the greater Spokane area.

Tom has created thousands of visual aids related to bible doctrine and expositional studies. Many of these have been used around the world by pastors, missionaries, and for Bible study. Several have been translated into other languages.

We will use high definition graphics as aids in our study of Bible prophecy. And these graphics will be made available to all on the Otis Church web site. (www.otischurch.com).

Asking questions is encouraged. In this format we will try to avoid public debate.

PURPOSE STATEMENT:

Bible Prophecy proclaims God as Sovereign Creator and Judge of all. It assures humanity of his love, mercy, and faithfulness, and it motivates the believer to live a godly life in Jesus Christ.

UNDERSTANDING PROPHECY:

Bible prophecy is a large part of the of God's inspired written Word. Our understanding must be one that makes sense historically, linguistically, and theologically. We must examine the words, grammar, thought flow, type of literature, and the overall message of the Bible.

Prophecy is not an end in itself, but supports a more important goal. God's primary purpose in dealing with humanity is to reconcile us to Himself through salvation in Christ. Bible prophecy serves that larger purpose. So, prophecy should lead us closer to Christ, so that we lean more on Him. The most important thing about prophecy is not about nations, and not about the future — it is about repentance, faith, salvation, and life right now.

Bible prophecy cannot be properly discussed without taking in both the Old and New Testaments and surveying the prophetic teaching. A study of Bible prophecy should be a humbling experience as one cannot know “everything” in Scripture.

Still, God gave us these prophecies for our betterment, to prepare us not only for the future but also for today.
